MUSIC REVIEW

By Regina Gillan

For all the wonderful summer nights we've been able to enjoy I've stumbled across this cd of the FOUR SEXES while I was by the poolside at Century Plaza Hotel for Chill/Grill. I met Sean Baker who plays piano and keyboards for the band. As he's describing the cd, he says "I have always been a fan of space age genre for over a decade and this cd is my own take on the music of our "Cocktail Nation". I like it already with my martini in hand! Secret rendezvous is an anecdote to our modern, stressed-out society. We as a world are in much need of a relaxing vacation. Four Sexes thinks outside of the square box and challenges a more open-minded and creative path. To express this idea musically, thinking outside the box of today's pop music scene, they have taken many types of music (pop, rock, jazz and big band) unified them using the language of space age pop lounge music. From a time when cocktails were poured and people were, perhaps, a little more relaxed. Four sexes is my pick for the cool summer nights relaxing by the pool.
