Indy group is in the swing

Keyboard player and vocalist Sean Baker says he doesn't define Four Sexes as a "wedding band," but he happily accepts the honor of being one of America's "150 Hot Bands and DJs" according to Modern Bride magazine.

The magazine cites the Indianapolis-based group, which also features vocalist Toni Bosten, bass player John Huber and drummer Adam White in its December-January issue.

"There are tons of jazz groups in town, but nobody is really doing it like we're doing it," Baker says.

"Lounge" is the essence of the band, which has added martini moods to hits by rock band Nirvana and rapper Sir Mix-a-Lot as well as classics identified with Frank Sinatra.

If you don't happen to catch Four Sexes at a wedding reception, the quartet plays weekly engagements at Nicky Blaine's, 20 N. Meridian St. (9 p.m. to midnight on Mondays and 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tuesdays); Cibo Italiano Ristorante, 5252 E. 82nd St. (7 to 10 p.m. Thursdays); and the Hyatt Regency, 1 S. Capitol Ave. (10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sundays).
